SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

A Day of Ideals.

A day without name, or position or date.
But portloned to each for his need:
A day when the soul drew its anchors
from earth.
And rose o'er the height of its creed—

Far out o'er the waves and the billows of life.
A pathway of glistening light.

Poems You Ought to Know.

Whatever your occupation may be, and however crowded your hours with affairs, do not fail to secure at least a few minutes every day for refreshment of your inner life with a bit of poetry.—Prof. Charles Eliot Norton.

Other selections from this author, his portrait, autograph and biographical aketch, have already been printed in this series.

Comes dancing from the east, and leads with her The flowery May, who from her green lap throws The reliow cowsilp and the pale primrose. Hall, bounteous May! that dost inspire Mirth and youth and warm desire; Woods and groves are of thy dressing, Hill and dale doth boast thy blessing. Thus we salute thee with our early song, And welcome thee, and wish thee long.
